ROBERTO DEKKER

As an avid believer in the power of people-centered design, I'm fascinated by psychology, user interaction, and people-based problem-solving. I approach design and development empathically and focus on understanding the needs and emotions of the users I design for, with the aim of creating clear, impactful solutions to glorify their lives.

WORK

Present

Yasurf

Co-Founder & UX/UI Designer

The goal is to provide modern web applications that move with the times and enable businesses to grow critically and successfully.

Present

Mayelow

Freelance Designer

From the moment I gained a little knowledge of media design, I started freelancing. People could come to me for a design of almost anything, but in the end I focused on web design.

March 2019 to August 2019

Cees & Co

Webdesigner / Front-End Developer

At Cees & Co I continued as a web designer, but then more technically. I worked more with code and less design. I also had the opportunity to sit down with customers and convince them or to meet their wishes.

October 2018 to March 2019

Groeier!

Webdesigner

At Groeier I have been designing and building websites, here I learned how projects are approached from customer approach to delivery. I also gained more knowledge with Wordpress and got crucial feedback on my designs.
